First semester English Mid-Exam two for grade 11th

December, 2018 E, C Number of questions: 40 Time allowed: 1hour

I:-Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions(1-15)accordingly.(1 point each.)

In today's world, where technology is developing rapidly, the AI-supported Chat GPT application has suddenly become the center of attention for ordinary internet users, students, and researchers. The use of Artificial Intelligence (AI) has revolutionized various sectors, and education is no exception of course. However, while this situation has been welcomed positively in some fields, it has caused some doubts in language teaching. While ChatGPT can be a valuable instrument in foreign language teaching, there are also some potential drawbacks. Some educators believe that the use of ChatGPT should be controlled and supervised (Gottlieb et al., 2023; Perry, 2021). According to Gottlieb et al. (2023), ChatGPT may provide incorrect, incomplete, or biased information. Since academic accuracy is not always guaranteed, students must verify the information they receive. Students may use ChatGPT to complete their assignments or write papers instead of doing the work themselves, leading to academic dishonesty. Their attitude can negatively impact their learning process and create ethical issues in education. In addition, this practice may lead students to simplicity and copying, blunt their creativity and prevent them from thinking critically (Cassidy, 2023). However, Zilcli (2023) argues that Chat GPT offers teachers essential opportunities to improve foreign language teaching and assessment, especially by providing students with a more personalized learning experience. ChatGPT can enhance students' writing skills, efficiently review the literature and generate content, produce summaries, evaluate academic work, perform translations, and create instructional worksheets for students in foreign language learning (Gottlieb et al., 2023). Considering the role of Chat GPT in L2 learning, support learner motivation, and offer feedback.

In this context, a proper understanding of new technology is essential to understand the complete picture of threats and opportunities. With the advances in technology and society, changes in the learner mindset are also occurring, which necessitates new learning needs. Undoubtedly, it will reveal through research that this game-changing artificial intelligence, which can meet some of the needs and requirements of language teaching, is an important stakeholder.

Among all these contrasting views, this study aims to reveal the impact of ChatGPT, an artificial intelligence application, on language learners' motivation in foreign language teaching and to find out the advantages and disadvantages of ChatGPT based on student experiences. Because of motivation, which is a sub-dimension of language learning, has a signicant impact on learning success. The effect of motivation on the language learning process was proved and it was determined that the key to proficiency and success in language learning is motivation (Scarcella & Oxford, 1992; Spolsky, 1989). In addition, motivation holds significant sway in language acquisition, influencing learners' inclination to engage in language learning endeavors, and their resolve to pursue linguistic objectives (Dörnyei & Ushioda, 2013). Many academics have emphasized the importance of motivation and explored strategies to positively affect students (Dörnyei, 1994).

Language educators are constantly exploring innovative approaches to boost student motivation and engagement. Integrating technology into language teaching presents a promising path to achieving this goal (Aydın Yıldız, 2023). These technologies offer learners the chance to interact with language in different contexts, to get immediate responses, and to be self-motivated. An example of an artificial intelligence system is Chat GPT, a language model created by OpenAI capable of producing human-like language interactions in response to user input. The scarcity of research on Chat GPT's application in language instruction and the ambiguity surrounding its effect on student motivation serve as primary motivations for conducting this study. Similarly, Ali et al., (2023) examined the motivational impact of ChatGPT in the context of L2 learning, highlighting its effectiveness in enhancing learners' reading and writing skills. Similarly, Gayed et al., (2022) employed an AI system named AI KAKU in an EFL setting, finding that it helped reduce cognitive load, which led to improvements in speaking skills.

D 1. What is one of the main concerns educators have about using ChatGPT in language teaching?

A. It prevents students from accessing online resources

B. It only supports native English speakers

C. It requires advanced technical skills to use

D. It might produce incorrect or biased information

C 2. According to the text, why might ChatGPT contribute to academic dishonesty?

A. It encourages students to collaborate excessively

B. It provides unlimited access to academic databases

C. Students may use it to complete assignments without doing the work themselves.

D. It allows teachers to monitor student progress.

B 3. Which of the following is mentioned as a potential disadvantage of ChatGPT in foreign language Learning?

A. Enhancing creativity C. Improving translation accuracy

B. Blunting critical thinking D. increasing students' speaking practice opportunities

A 4. Zitelı (2023) argues that ChatGPT is valuable because it can:

A. Offer personalized learning experiences C. Replace teachers entirely

B. Make students dependent on technology D. Limit students' writing abilities

D 5. According to Gottlieb et al. (2023), ChatGPT can help students by:

A. Solving advanced math problems

B. Replacing textbooks

C. Memorizing vocabulary lists

D. Improving writing, summarizing content, and creating instructional worksheets

C 6. What is the central aim of the study described in the text?

A. To compare ChatGPT with other AI models

B. To evaluate how ChatGPT affects student grades

C. To examine the impact of ChatGPT on language learners' motivation.

D. To test the accuracy of ChatGPT's translations

B 7. Why is motivation considered crucial in language learning?

A. It determines the grammatical accuracy of learners

B. It influences learners' willingness to engage and persist in learning activities

C. It eliminates the need for practice

D. It ensures learners will reach native-speaker proficiency

A 8. What reason does the text provide for conducting this study?

A. There is limited research and unclear understanding of ChatGPT's effect on learner motivation

B. ChatGPT has already replaced traditional language instruction

C. There is extensive research on ChatGPT in language teaching

D. ChatGPT is primarily used for speaking practice only

D 9. What did Gayed et al. (2022) find about the AI system AI KAKU in EFL contexts?

A. It reduced students' interest in the subject

C. It had no measurable effect

B. It increased cognitive load

D. It reduced cognitive load and improved speaking skills

C 10. Which authors warn that ChatGPT may provide incorrect, incomplete, or biased information?

A. Zhleli (2023)

C. Gottlieb et al. (2023)

B. Dörnyei & Ushioda (2013)

D. Ali et al. (2023)

B 11. Which researcher argues that ChatGPT can improve language teaching by offering personalized learning?

A. Spolsky (1989) B. Zhleli (2023) C. Perry (2021) D. Cassidy (2023)

A 12. Which citation refers to ChatGPT's negative impact on creativity and critical thinking?

A. Cassidy (2023)

C. Ali et al. (2023)

B. Scarcella & Oxford (1992)

D. Gayed et al. (2022)

B 13. What does "revolutionized" most nearly mean in the context of the text?

A. Minimized B. Dramatically changed C. Rejected D. Simplified

B 14. The phrase "academic dishonesty" is best defined as:

A. Forgetting to study
